Wise Decision Reviewed End of Contract and Extended Contract Schemes to Protect Clients in Change of Control Scenario; Launches Financing of the Vulnerability Assessment Investment Portfolio with Loan of € 300,000 and Commentary on its Rights-Free-of-Charge Vulnerability Assessment Activities Rome, 1 April 2018 - CAR and Banca di Roma have been consulted by a group of consumers to acquire additional information on payment solutions. In fact, the clients informed the two banks that they are not satisfied with the current options and they are looking for more flexibility, transparency and cost saving with respect to the management of payments. To that end, CAR and Banca di Roma offered the clients a discretionary benefits on the purchase of cards and financing the access to CAR and Banca di Roma systems in order to identify and mitigate potential risks and costs for the payment solutions in the event of a joint sale or acquisition of controlling interest. The two banks then examined the client requirements and identified for each one the benefits offered by each other. In addition, the banks also compared the different payment solutions in the market and the prices they would charge for the card, bank payment card and prepaid card. On the basis of this evaluation, the two banks have then determined the benefits for each client, which are described in more detail below: Payment solutions for purchase of card and financing access to the bank systems in event of a joint sale or acquisition of controlling interest - In the event of a joint sale or acquisition of a controlling interest in the group, the acquiring party may transfer to the existing clients of the group the ownership of the existing bank cards and may continue using the existing cards of the clients. - In the event of a joint sale or acquisition of a controlling interest in the group, the acquiring party may decide to discontinue the existing bank cards of the clients and may then deliver to the clients new bank cards. - In the event of a joint sale or acquisition of a controlling interest in the group,
