Create private notes where you can add both texts as well as special characters and that you can safeguard from anyone using the computer with a password. Allows you to create notes that you can protect with a passwords The utility comes with a sleek and stylish interface that is available in a light and dark theme. Moreover, upon launch, it includes a few links to how to get started, a feature that can come in handy for anyone who did not use this type of app before. You can get started by creating a new journal, an operating that solely entails specifying the password. On a side note, the password needs to contain a special character and upper case to be valid and provides industry-grade AES-256 encryption. Once you created a journal, you can create a new entry by specifying the date, mood, text and attach a picture, if required. Supports emojis, tables and attached images It is worth mentioning that the program allows you to include a wide variety of characters in addition to the text, as the app employs Markdown for formatting. Consequentially, depending on the type of notes you make, you can add tables, checklists, images and even emojis. On the other hand, you should bear in mind that the application does not pack any synchronization feature and hence, you cannot share or sync the notes with other calendars or organizers. It would have been nice if you could send these notes to your email calendar, as you could be more prepared for various meetings or tasks. A memo manager for anyone who wants to keep private notes If the above analysis was helpful, then you will find JournalBear Serial Key useful as it will prove to be invaluable in taking notes when you need to do so. It doesn't have much more than what's needed to make a simple word processor. It's a great little app for beginners. Also if you're using an iPad you can just get copy and paste which is pretty nice. If you already have a lot of stuff in your ToDo and want to be able to have all your ToDo details available offline, this might be a good fit for you. It's a simple Todo list that syncs your lists across your devices. It also has sharing features. A very simple and clean to-do app that helps you manage your busy life. The app keeps your lists intact even if you lose your device. If you want to share your lists you can do so through email. You can sync your lists with other devices too and with the built-in dictionary you can look up words. The app can be a little bit slow with a newer device, but doesn't stop you from doing your to-dos. The best add-on that you can use for Evernote is Pocket. This is an amazing app for reading the web while using Evernote. If you're not familiar with Pocket, it's really easy to use. Simply use the add-on, sign in with your Evernote and you're done. This app allows you to back up your notes. It is smart enough to know to back up only the notes that have changed. You simply need to add the notes you want to backup. 09e8f5149f
